JAMI MASJID AT JAUNPUR

- Built by Hussain Shah in A.D. 1470.
- Represents many of the essential features of the Shaikhi Masjid on a larger scale.
- The entire structure is raised on a plinth 40'-60' in height and approached by a steep but imposing flight of steps.

However, like other early mosques in Oudh and Banda, the pillars and the ceiling of the main show clear traces of Hindu style, notwithstanding the unchanged central mihrab and the three mihrabs on either side of the west prayer room. These elements enable one to assume that this mosque was built by Hindu workmen.

DECCAN STYLES

- Earliest example is Tomb of Ashraf-ud-Din Bahman at Bidar. It is an imitation of the style of the Sultan of Delhi.
- Bidar was made capital when Ahmad Shah shifted from Gulbarga to Bidar in 1455.
- Bidar monuments show combination of Persian and Delhi elements.
- Octagonal dome first appeared in Bidar.
- Gulbarga was a fortified city but Bidar also contains palaces.
- Typical first phase was Chhatrapati, which flourished under Qutub Shahi Dynasty.
- Examples from Chhatrapati show the fully developed bidar dome.
